“COMMUNICATION”

In this advancing world of the 1980's, we find changes in communication everyday experiences. We've witnessed the break-up of the largest world-wide communications system, AT&T. We've become foster parents to languages such as Basic, Fortran, and Pascal, which the scientific world of computers has adopted. As diplomatic relations with foreign countries are strengthened, the need to communicate in the languages of other lands increases. Language is our key to communication. Words are nothing without meaning. Language is the interpreter of time, progress and technology.

In keeping with the theme of Memini '84, "In Our Own Words," the book has been dedicated to a man who understands the growing need for new kinds of communication and the need for people to communicate in a language other than their own.

In addition to being a teacher at Comprehensive, he has shown a deep interest in the student body through his active involvement in the Modern Foreign Language Club. He maintains a strong concern for faculty-student communication by upholding an "open-door" policy with all of his students. His strong emphasis on foreign languages has helped his students realize that there are many other valuable ideas and customs in the world, and that an understanding of different languages and cultures is vital to intellectual and social growth.

With these thoughts in mind, we very proudly present Memini '84 to Mr. Paul A. LeBeau.

WORDS . . .

a means to share

ideas

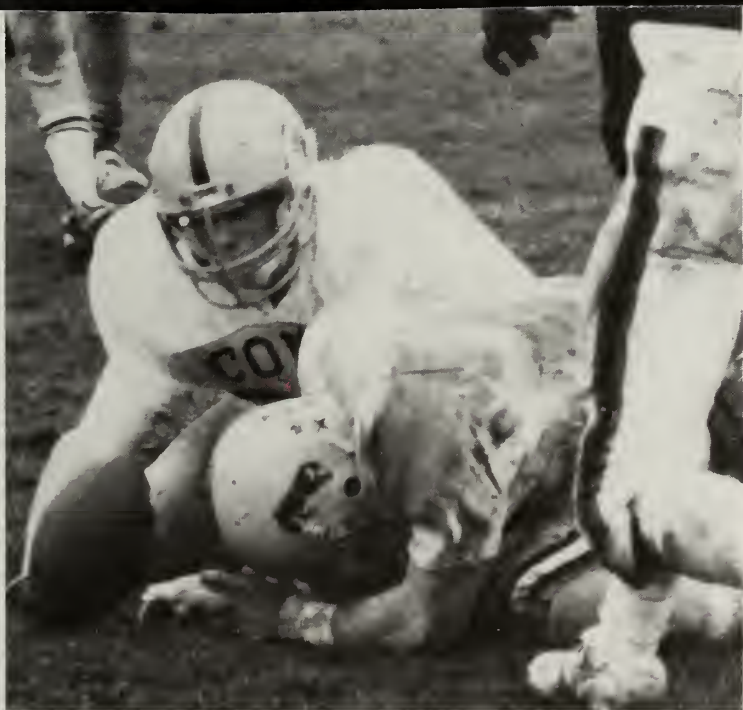

emotions

friendships

a means of communication through time

past mistakes

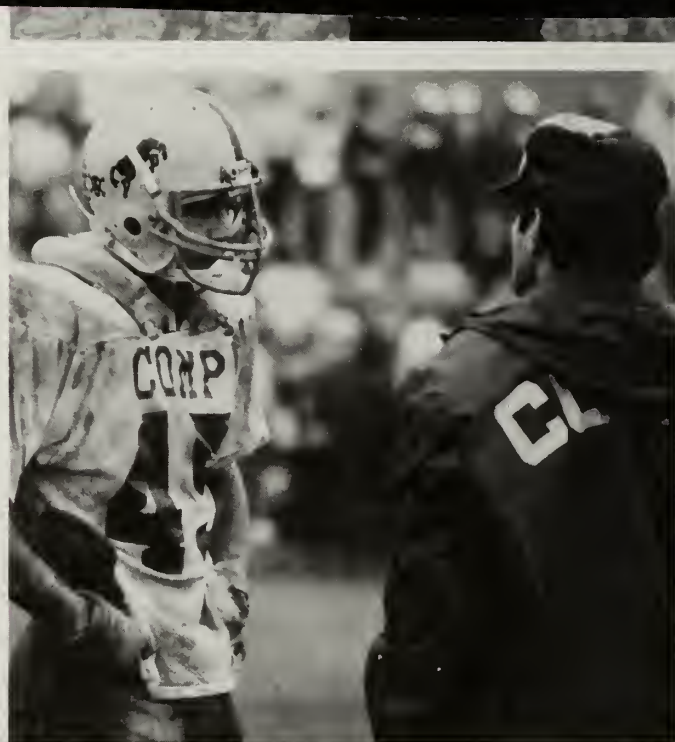

past defeats

past triumphs

their thoughts enrich ours,

their knowledge increases ours,
and ours, in turn, are theirs.

"Some hang on to 'used-to-be'

live their lives
looking behind."

We have learned from, and now let go of, their words of wisdom.

WORDS IN OUR PRESENT

We depend so much upon words at this time.

Class notes,
term papers,

morning announcements,
graduation speeches.

WORDS IN OUR FUTURE

"All we have is here and now,
all our lives out there to find."

"Out there ..."

college, careers, taxes, unemployment, prosperity, nuclear weapons peace.
How we deal with them is up to us.

Each of us has his own doubts and beliefs,
hopes and expectations,
which are expressed in our words:

"What kind of world am I going to find?
Will it be real or just all in my mind?"

Where am I going and what will I see?"

What am I
Who am I?
What will I be?

REMEMBER WHEN?

Remember the years we spent in high school?
Remember the changes happening around us?
The whole world was transformed before our very eyes.

Remember all the trends that we helped popularize?
We dressed up in hot-pink mini skirts and Nike sneakers.
We were surrounded by Garfield and Smurf paraphernalia.
We couldn't turn around without taking the Pepsi Challenge, or comparing the Whopper and the Big Mac.
If we needed to know what time it was, all we had to do was look at our new pens.
And the huge ghetto-blasting radios we used to carry around were replaced by the more convenient "walkman."
We had some awesome fads, fer sure!

Remember how we managed to keep ourselves entertained?
We went to the movies at the Holyoke Mall and saw the long awaited "Return of the Jedi", we watched Richard Gere become an idol in "An Officer and a Gentleman", and we glimpsed a look into the future of computers in "War Games."
On television, we tuned into programs such as "Magnum P.I.", "General Hospital", "Cheers", and the dueling prime-time soap operas "Dynasty", and "Dallas!" We even said goodbye to the long-running CBS comedy "M.A.S.H."
Musicwise, we were told to "Get Physical" with Olivia Newton John, to "Beat It" with Michael Jackson. We listened to "Every Breath You Take" with the Police; we heard "Rock the Casbah" with the Clash, and "Tell Her About It" by Billy Joel.
We also witnessed the Who's final tour.
During high school, to quote Def Leppard, we weren't "foolin' around."

Remember all the abbreviations we dealt with?
E.T. was a three-foot tall, Reese's-pieces-munching, extra-terrestrial subject of a blockbuster movie.
Mr. T. was a rough and tough hero from the hit series A-Team.
MX was a controversial missile.
SAT's were dreaded tests that we got to color in.
MTV was revolutionary music television station that showed us the latest songs.

Remember the politics that we first were aware of?
Hazardous waste management became an issue due to the Environmental Protection Agency scandal.
We felt the relief of inflation's going down, although our wages were cut to "increase the job market."
We were relieved when martial law was finally repealed in Poland. We watched with fascination as the future King of England, Prince Charles, married a fairy-tale princess, Lady Di, and started a family. The battles in Lebanon ceased, but at the same time we were horrified to learn that Soviet planes had shot down a Korean jet-liner, killing 269 innocent people.

Remember Senior Year? Senior hat day; finally sitting in the senior section at the rallies; kicking the underclassmen off the senior lunch table; painting the tank on homecoming weekend. Remember the multitude of different feelings that we were bombarded with? We felt excitement in leaving Comp, but fear in entering the "real world". We were saddened to think of all the special friends and memories that we were about to leave behind as we started out on our own ways through life. Senior year will always be remembered for its good friends and good times!

Administration

To the class of 1984:

People who have shared common experiences usually have a kindred relationship. Although I know only a few of you personally, I feel that this relationship has been established because you entered high school the same year I became superintendent.

We have shared the problems associated with revised curriculum, new graduation requirements, introduction of computers and word processing, curtailing of some extra curriculum activities etc., etc.

You have adjusted well to all these changes - a factor which is a major part of your total education. I would like to congratulate you on your successful completion of high school and to thank you for making the superintendency a gratifying experience for me.

William Coscore

It gives me great pleasure and pride to extend my congratulations to the Graduating Class of 1984.

Commencement exercises mark the formal completion of your public school education, and also signify the beginning of a future of exciting new challenges.

I am very confident that you have the capability of meeting these challenges, and I hope that you meet them with the same idealism, courage, and enthusiasm that you have exhibited while in school.

May I offer my sincere best wishes for health, happiness, and success in all your endeavors.

Herbert H. Curry

William Coscore, Superintendent of Schools

Herbert Curry, Asst. Superintendent

Carolyn Fitzgerald, Administrative Assistant

I wish to offer my sincerest congratulations to the members of the class of 1984 for their achievements and contributions.

As educated young adults, you must vigorously pursue the search for the causes of injustice, destruction, immorality, corruption, apathy and inequality. You must then strive to present viable alternatives to these social malignancies.

The faculty at Chicopee Comprehensive High School is committed to quality education, and the students who were educationally motivated benefitted these past four years. Knowledge is like a meandering brook, and that is, it never stands still. You must continue your search for advanced education.

Each person should develop positive goals, ideals and attitudes. The Norwegian Nobel Committee honored Lech Walesa as the "burning torch of man's inextinguishable longing for freedom". You should also protect your inalienable rights of freedom by exercising prudent judgement and wisdom in a peaceful, orderly manner while always being cognizant of due process under the law.

When we enter the "Information Age" which deals with microelectronics as the most important of today's technologies, you must be prepared to offer the insights and creativity to expand our resources.

Your generation will experience some magnificent, revolutionary technological developments which will greatly enhance your standard of living. You will witness great contributions in the biotechnological field, and some of you may be the contributors.

Continue your education and become a "doer" for a better tomorrow.

"The effective communication of ideas is the major concern of any counselor who would assume responsibility of counseling in the world today.

As you know, a counselor is a person who is specially trained to help a student realize his/her fullest potential as a unique human being. Consequently, depending on your needs, your counselor can help you:

1. Assess your strengths and limitations.
2. Make suitable decisions.
3. Develop positive attitudes.
4. Choose courses that are right for you.
5. Solve personal problems.
6. Discover your talents and abilities.
7. Plan your education.
8. Decide on a career.
9. Find a job.

Therefore, it is essential that every student realize that the mainstay of guidance is— communication."

"It's true that the limits of one's language, to an extent, stand for the limits of his world. A grounding in the skills of language increases an individual's ability to think independently and to understand the depth and complexity of life. It is through language that we express not only the objective content of our experience, but also the more subtle coloring and shading of our emotional lives."

Paul Midura

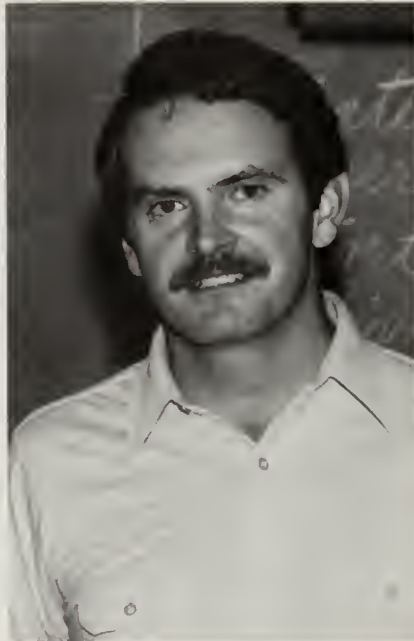

"Students are unaware of the emphasis given to reading and writing skills in the real world outside the classroom. Reading and writing are skills needed to survive, not just succeed in any career. Students also do not realize that the study of English prepares them for adult life outside of the job market."

Adult life outside of one's job comprises far more hours and also requires English skills, whether reading directions, writing a letter or completing tax returns. English, like the rest of one's high school education, improves the whole human being, not just the employee."

"As a foreign language teacher, I must say that the greatest external challenge to education in the 1980s is how to educate for the changing society, technology, and world situation with (1) declining financial resources, both local and federal; (2) lack of public support for education; and (3) a declining pool of qualified teacher candidates:

In essence, how to do more with less and less. In order to reverse the trend, Americans simply must elevate education to the same level of priority as we afford other aspects of society and defense."

Shorthand could be very helpful in taking notes during a lecture. Many college courses are strictly on a lecture basis.

We have also introduced word processing which is used in many of the offices."

"Each day, often without realizing it, you make many decisions that affect your health, your smoking and drinking habits, the food you eat, whether you exercise and how much, how you control your weight and handle stress-these are some of the factors which you can control. This is why health education is so important. It is the key to a greater understanding of yourself -your mind and body- and the choices you can make to improve and protect your health. If you use the information obtained from your health course and follow through with personal action, your health education will have a positive effect on you. High school courses in health go far beyond the basic lessons that once made up the major part of the curriculum; they now aim at the far broader goal of helping America's young people achieve overall well-being, mental, physical, and social. Understanding Wholistic health will give the students the means to recognize and deal with the problems of life itself."

Due to the increased technical nature of most 'state of the art' equipment and machinery, students must now face increased requirements to acquire a stronger set of the 'basic skills' of education. Most vocational programs today reflect changes which have resulted from the 'high tech' explosion including 'robotics', computer assisted manufacturing process, and laser technology."

"Art courses offer students an outlet for self-expression. This outlet can lead to life-long enjoyment for the typical student, or for the gifted student, it can lead to the development of skills necessary for a successful career in art. Art courses offer a relaxed yet disciplined atmosphere where the serious student can dig deeply within himself and then try to communicate what he finds.

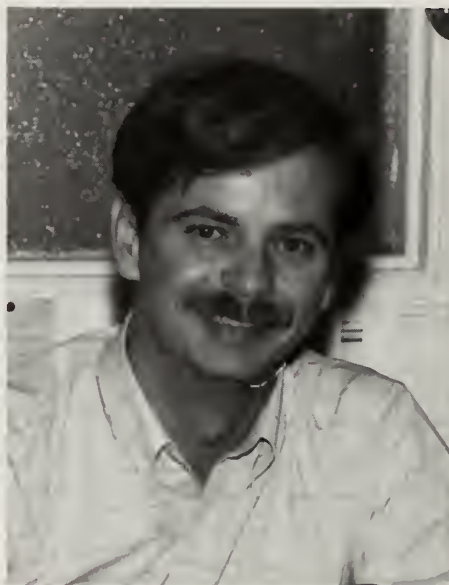

For many students art is an easier and better place to communicate. Simply, because of the nature of the subject, art classes offer a freer atmosphere in which the shy student who has difficulty verbalizing or the student lacking in writing skills can successfully communicate."

HOOTIN' RALLY DANCE HOMECOMING EXCHANGE RALLY

This year's homecoming exchange rally was filled with much tension and excitement. After encouraging words from the coaches and players, the Comp fans were really psyched for an event-filled weekend.

Encouragement from Mr. Kuzdzal

C-O-L-T-S!

When Mr. Huhtamaki talks, people listen.

Stomp that Spider!

Determined Seniors.

Cheerleaders show their stuff.

J.V. has spirit too!

The Junior "girls".

This year's Hootin' Rally dance was filled with excitement. First the cheerleaders did their dance to "Beat It", then the J.V. cheerleaders showed their spirit with a skit. Also the Juniors challenged the Seniors to a powderpuff cheerleading match (which the Seniors won). And finally, Marie Forget was crowned homecoming queen.

The victorious Seniors!

Homecoming queen, Marie Forget, and her court.

This year's Homecoming game between CCHS and CHS was well attended. Even though we missed out on our chance at owning the sword, Sr. Alex Fimbel said it best, "We may have lost, but we've won with spirit!"

The Mighty Colt.

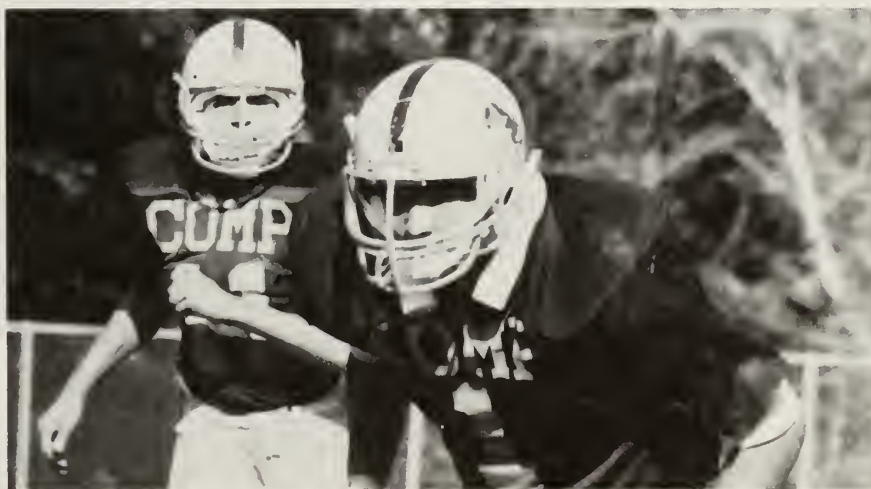

Cheerleaders have spirit.

Enthusiastic fans.

"Let me through!"

What determination!

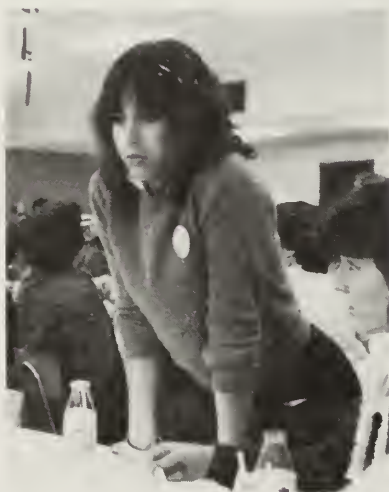

Headed for a touchdown!

The Marching Colts.

SPAGHETTI SUPPER SPAGHETTI

This year's spaghetti supper, sponsored by the Student Council, was filled with mixed emotions. Even though the game was lost, everyone still enjoyed the dinner.

Ready!

Cheerleaders show their stuff.

The Senior football players.

Thanksgiving weekend was highlighted not only by the exchange rally, but also by the annual pancake breakfast before the game. Sr. Ken Galindo says, "It was delicious."

An inspirational message.

Words to live by. (Matt Llodra)

Despite the rainy weather, the Colts put up a good fight against their Thanksgiving Day rivals, the S.H.H.S. Tigers. In the words of Sr. Kevin Griffin, it was a "big let down" when the Colts lost.

What style!

"Come On!"

Advice from Coach Chrisant.

What now?

Ready!

Frustration.

This is gonna be one long game.

Comp Cheerleaders still have spirit.

THE LAST WORD

Now the Class of 1984 belongs to "what was", and exists solely in the spirit and words we leave behind. Our own personal journeys into "what will be", however, have only just begun. May our past words make a lasting impression on whoever remembers them, and may our future words always express the determination, confidence, and endurance we have gained during our years at Chicopee Comprehensive.

"What do you think you will miss the most?"

"I'll miss the girls." — Stephen Brunetti

"I don't even want to think about it. I guess I'll miss all my friends, and the great times we had." — Amy Patla

"Donuts and Physics labs." — Tina Martell

"Probably the kids. And all the fun we had." — Robin Skibinski

"Definitely not Chemistry." — Diane Desmarais

"Bringing Tom Dubrieul a lollipop every day." — Wende Raymond

"M&M breaks between classes." — Paula Jendrysik

"Gossip in A.P. English." — Sue Giroux

"Breakfast at Abdows." — Anonymous

"The camaraderie of fellow classmates." — Jim Nichols

"A.P. English, force vectors, and Mr. E.O." — D.M.M.

"Sharing a locker with Tina Martell." — Lisa Salamon

"Having fun." — Rich Laurin

"Mr. Happy and the rest of my friends." — Deneen Carr

"Not much, really." — Jeanne Lockhart

"Levi's." — The Girls in Physics

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A sincere "thank-you" to all those staff members who helped to make Memini '84 "In Our Own Words" a success. The time and effort you have so whole-heartedly put into this year's book will not be forgotten. Keep your dreams alive because they symbolize your future existence. We wish you the best of luck in all your endeavors.

A very special "thank-you" to:

Mrs. Filak, for an excellent job as our yearbook advisor

Mr. Don Lendry, our Josten's representative

The Greniers

Mr. Kuzdzal

Mr. Pinciak, and Mrs. Leonard

Mr. Martell, Senior Class Advisor

The Senior Class Officers

Paula Szulc, for being so dedicated to her duties as Sub-Editor of Memini '84

Mike Boivin and Joyce Mancini, the outstanding Senior Section Editors, for a job well done.

Claudette Giguere, for her successful Faculty Section

Andrea Chapdelaine, for organizing a very clever Athletic Section layout

“ . . . and finally . . . ”

The words we have shared these past four years have become a representation of what lies behind us, and what lies before us. But what lies behind us and what lies before us are minor matters compared to what lies within us.

No man's words will ever be able to change what was, but we may reflect upon it, and learn from it, and with this wisdom we have gained through our hindsight, we may better be able to piece together the puzzles of the world beyond that in which we now live.

IN YOUR OWN WORDS . . .
